NUMB. 98.

THE South-Carolina Gazette.

Containing the freſheſt Advices Foreign and Domeſtick.

From Saturday, DECEMBER 6. to Saturday, DECEMBER 13. 1735.

Some Gentlemen in London, having thought fit, ſome Years ago, to print a conſiderable Numbers of the following on half Sheets, and give them away; the inſerting it in our Gazette cannot, we think, be unacceptable to our Readers.

Dr Samuel Clark's Mark and Criterion of True Religion and Superſtition, extracted from his Sermons, Volume II. Page 134.

AS Religion and Superſtition differ entirely in their Ground and Foundation, ſo do they likewiſe in their Effects. By their Fruits ye ſhall know them, Matt. vii. 20. Religion which is founded in Truth, always makes Men impartially inquiſitive after Truth, Lovers of Reaſon, meek, gentle, patient, willing to be informed: Superſtition on the contrary, naturally makes Men blind and paſſionate, Deſpiſers of Reaſon, careleſs in enquiring after Truth, haſty, cenſorious, contentious, and impatient of Inſtruction. Religion teaches Men to be exactly juſt, equitable, and charitable towards all Men: Superſtition, on the contrary, frequently puts Men upon undervaluing the eternal Rules of Morality, and upon preferring the Intereſt of particular Sects and Parties, the Prevalency of ſome uncertain Opinions, and the Practice of ſome needleſs Ceremonies, before the unalterable Precepts of the everlaſting Law, and the everlaſting Goſpel. Laſtly, True Religion of Nature in general, and the Religion of Chriſt in particular, by ſecuring the Belief of a future Judgment, tends greatly to promote the Happineſs of Nations, and good Governments, in obliging the Conſciences of Men to real Fidelity, Juſtice, and the ſincere Practice of every Virtue, which the very beſt human Laws can but imperfectly ſecure, by compelling merely the eternal Action: but Superſtition, on the contrary, frequently produces Wars and Tumults, and Tyrannies without End; there being nothing ſo wicked, which Men of ſuperſtitious Principles will not think pious and neceſſary, and which Men of no Principles will not, upon Occaſion, bring themſelves to ſubmit to.

LONDON, Sept. 6.

We have an Account from Paris, that Franciſco Carraſco, a Spaniſh Courier going from Paris to Madrid, was attacked by three Men, well mounted and armed, in the Valley of Carthuſians on the other Side of Orleans, who demanded his Money and Diſpatches; but the Courier, like an old Spaniard, inſtead of preſenting his Money or Diſpatches, preſented his Piſtol, and killed one of them dead on the Spot; and having with the Help of the Poſtillion knocked down another, the Third made his Eſcape; but the Fellow that was knocked down was ſecured, and proves to be an Iriſhman. It was at firſt ſuſpected that theſe Fellows had rather a Deſign upon his Diſpatches than upon his Money; but ſoon after 'twas found that the ſame Rogues had that Day committed ſeveral Robberies near the ſame Place, the Perſons they had robbed being found tyed to Trees, among whom was one of the Duke of Orlean's Chaplains, who was almoſt dead before he was found; ſo that if the Fellows were really imployed to rob the Courier of his Diſpatches, they have taken a very Politick Method to conceal their Real Deſign.

We hear a Propoſal has been made for inlightening the Streets of London much better than heretofore: The Propoſal is, that, inſtead of 800 and odd Convex Lamps uſed at preſent, which always dazzle People's Eyes in their Approach towards them, there ſhall be 4000 Globular Lamps, which will not only look glorioufly, but will give a much better and a leſs offenſive Light to the Inhabitants; and it is propoſed that all theſe Lamps ſhall be ſupplyed with Rapeſeed Oil, which will give great Encouragement for the cultivating our waſte Lands with Rapeſeed, it being computed that no leſs than 300 Tons of Rape Oil will be expended Yearly more than uſual; and yet the Expence according to this Method will not be a great deal more than the preſent Expence of the Convex Lamps.

Laſt Wedneſday Morning the Right Hon. Francis Howard, Earl of Effingham, Deputy (with the Royal Approbation) to his Grace Edward Duke of Norfolk, Earl Marſhal, and Hereditary Marſhal of England, came to the College of Arms to create Francis Huchenſon, Eſq; Arundel Herald of Arms extraordinary, with the uſual Solemnity: The Ceremony was as follows: His Lordſhip being ſeated in his Chair with the Staff of Office in his Hand, and the ſeveral Officers habited in their Coats, made a ſolemn Proceſſion thro' the Hall into the Library, where the ſeveral Officers divided to make room for the ſaid Mr. Huchenſon, ſupported by York and Richmond Heralds, Rouge Dragon Purſuivant carrying the Bowl of Wine and Warrant for Creation, and Blue Mantle Purſuivant carrying the Coat and Collar: All Things being thus diſpos'd in their proper Order, firſt his Lordſhip's Nomination was read, and then her Majeſty's Approbation thereof, which being perform'd, the ſaid Mr. Huchenſon, between his two Supporters, kneel'd down, and laying his right Hand upon the Goſpels, upon which lay a naked Sword with a Croſs, the Oath of his Office was adminiſter'd by Norroy King of Arms, in the Abſence of Garter, blue Mantle preſented the Coat and Collar to his Lordſhip, with which he was inveſted, and then Rouge Dragon preſented to his Lordſhip the Bowl of Wine, of which he was pleaſed to pour Part on his Head, and named him Arundel, whereupon all the reſt of the Officers of Arms cry'd out Arundel; after which, having made due Reverences to his Lordſhip, they retired, and thus the Ceremony ended.

Mr Joſeph Wright of Shug-Lane, has made, by order of the King of Portugal, clothing compleat for 1200 Foot, and 1200 Horſe, with Cloaks, &c. and the ſame has been put on board a Ship bound to Lizbon, for the Service of the Portugueze Troops. The ſaid Cloathing was cut out, made, packed up, and put on Board the Ship in leſs than five Weeks from the Receipt of the Order.

Sept 13. Owen Allen, Eſq; who had a very plentiful Eſtate in Ireland, and died on Tueſday Night laſt at his Lodgings in Pall-Mall, has by his Will bequeathed ſeveral handſome Legacies to unfortunate Gentlemen of his his own Country, which he has ordered to be paid in three Months after his Deceaſe; which, tho' a new Sort of Charity, is one of the moſt reaſonable Sorts of Charities, that has been given by any Gentleman of a long Time.
